NOTICE INVITING BIDS

1. Bid Submission. Alameda Municipal Power ("AMP"), a department of the City of Alameda ("City"), acting by and through the City's Public Utilities Board ("PUB"), will accept electronically submitted bids for its NCPA-CT1 Substation 115kV SF6 Breaker Replacement Project ("Project"), by or before May 5, 2021, at 3:00 p.m., via PlanetBids, at: <https://www.planetbids.com/portal/portal.cfm?CompanyID=28028> ("Bid Portal"). Bids that are not submitted by a registered vendor via the Bid Portal will not be accepted.

2. Project Information. The Project is located at 2900 Main Street, Alameda, California 94501, and is described as follows: Alameda Municipal Power (AMP) is the City of Alameda's not for profit electric municipal utility, serving residents and businesses for over 130 years. Its reliable electric supply system covers 23 square miles and provides power to more than 34,000 customers. AMP has two main substations namely Cartwright and Jenney Substations. AMP also maintains and operates certain electric facilities at Northern California Power Agency Combustion Turbine Project Number One Substation (NCPA-CT1). NCPA-CT1 substation is shared by NCPA and AMP for the former to interconnect the Combustion Turbine generator units and for AMP to distribute power to customers within the City of Alameda. AMP's 115-kV transmission system is fed from two separate radially connected lines coming from Pacific Gas Electric's (PG&E) Substations C and J, both located in Oakland, California.

The existing Westinghouse 121DWE40-2000A Sulfur Hexafluoride (SF6) insulated high voltage dead tank circuit breakers (CBs) CB212 and CB222 at NCPA-CT1 Substation served as the incoming main feeds from 115kV transmission lines connected to PG&E Station C and AMP Cartwright Substation. These SF6 CBs have been in service for over 35 years and have exceeded its service life. This project involves replacing two (2) SF6 CB with two (2) new Siemens Motor Spring Operating Mechanism SF6 CBs. CB tanks, motor operator/terminal cabinets, new CB structural steel support lattice pieces, and their associated parts have already been delivered and are currently stored at AMP Warehouse located at 1835 Oak Street. The Technical Specifications contain the full description of the Work.
