Webster Street's Feathered Outlaw wishes the happiest of birthdays to all the sea-goats born under the ambitious, conservative, determined, practical and helpful zodiac sign: Capricorn. It's a whole new year to find oneself and follow the pursuit of joy. Feathered Outlaw gift shop has a few new offerings that will kick off in the next couple of months including monthly Usui Reiki sessions beginning this Sunday, Jan. 13. A second monthly Herbal Gypsy make-and-take workshop has been set for Tuesday, Feb. 12, featuring massage oils and seasonal master-classes, still in development. The shop will have some incredible new artists displaying their original works including Savannah Crow and Larissa Loden. The 2nd Friday Art Soiree continues this Friday, Jan. 11, and feature the fantastic art of Luke Dollar, new classes, offerings and giveaways from 6 to 9 p.m. Find out more on all the social media sites and featheredoutlaw.com.

request, as required by the County's process, to distribute 20 percent of the funds for direct services, 10 percent for rent subsidies or assistance and 70 percent for capital improvements. Possible HEAP projects being considered include: establishing a regional partnership with the cities of Fremont, Hayward, San Leandro and Union City to purchase a shared mobile-hygiene unit and establish sanctioned car and RV parking areas, providing housing assistance and emergency motel vouchers and building public restrooms in the two main street areas in the city.

January local business spotlight: Alameda Tattoo 650 Haight Ave.
Welcome to Alameda Tattoo, serving Alameda for eight years in the tiniest tattoo shop in the Bay Area. Tucked away off the beaten path at 650 Haight Ave. just off Webster Street, Alameda Tattoo remains one of Alameda's best-kept secrets. Measuring just 360 square feet, this family owned shop may be tiny, but it's tough and filled to the brim with talent. Opened in 2011 by 30-year veteran tattoo artist, Eric Reed, the place has thrived while staying true to its underground roots and ethics. The shop provides tattoo artists, tattoo collectors and true artists refuge from the continually homogenized cookie-cutter establishments that come and go with today's mainstream mindset. The shop is cozy with Tiki, vintage knickknacks, plants and painted artwork by artists: Billy, Melissa and Reed, creating an atmosphere one would expect to see in an art studio on an island. Come rub elbows with artists and tattoo collectors that live and breathe the artist lifestyle at Alameda Tattoo. These artists can do any style of tattoo from portraits to American traditional and more. Check out their artwork on Instagram @Alamedatattoo and contact a favorite artist directly, or better yet, cruise in, say hello and check it out. Support local artists and businesses on the West End!
